Claims 1-56 are currently pending and under examination.

The disclosure is objected to because of the following informalities: a clerical error is noted at page 6, line 2: "product" should apparently read –producing-. Appropriate correction of the specification is required.

The specification is objected to as failing to provide proper antecedent basis for the claimed subject matter. See 37 CFR 1.75(d)(1) and MPEP § 608.01(o). Correction of the following is required: the apparent lack of proper antecedent basis for the "120 microns" subject matter of claim 43. While the specification does provide a reference to "US 120 mesh" on page 14, it is not clear whether "microns" and "US mesh" are synonymous terms. Clarification and appropriate correction are required.

Claim 56 is objected to because of the following informalities: in line 2, "product" apparently should read –producing-. Appropriate correction is required.

Claims 37-44 are rejected under 35 U.S.C. 112, second paragraph, as being indefinite for failing to particularly point out and distinctly claim the subject matter which applicant regards as the invention. More specifically, the following grounds for indefiniteness apply to the indicated claims.

Art Unit: 1713

(A) Claim 37 [and claims dependent thereon] provides the limitation to "the cycle gas density". There is inadequate antecedent basis for this limitation in the claims (i.e., claims 37/33).

(B) Claim 43 is ambiguous in the recitation "about 0 to ...". The use of "about" in this context creates indefiniteness, as it is not clear from the antecedent disclosure what values below precisely zero weight percent are intended to be covered, while values greater than zero are already embraced by the language "0 to about 2 ...". Clarification and/or appropriate correction are required.

The prior art made of record and not relied upon is considered pertinent to applicants' disclosure.

Zilker, Jr. et al is cited as illustrative of analogous art relating to a process for transitioning from a first sticky polymer to a second sticky polymer in a gas phase fluidized bed polymerization reactor.

Lee, et al is cited to show the concept of introducing an amine-containing antistatic agent during production of ethylene (co)polymer in a fluidized bed reactor in the presence of a metallocene/alumoxane catalyst system.

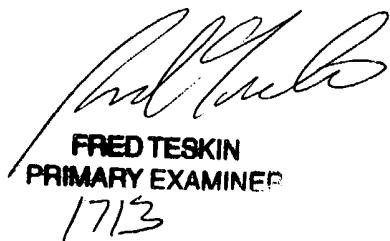

Claims 1-56 are allowable in substance over the prior art of record. Examiner has not, as of the date of this Office action, located or identified any prior art document(s) that can be used to render a polymerization reaction transition process as defined by said claims anticipated or obvious to a person having ordinary skill in the art.
